10 Copy-Paste AI Prompts for Educators

Built with the CRAFT formula — so every prompt already knows what to ask for.

These are single-step prompts, built for teachers, tutors, and school staff who are just getting started with AI. Each one uses the CRAFT formula — Context, Role, Action, Format, Tone — broken out so you can see exactly why the prompt works, plus a ready-to-paste version underneath.

WHAT IS CRAFT?

- Context — what's actually going on, so the AI isn't guessing
- Role — who you're asking the AI to act as
- Action — the specific thing you want it to do
- Format — how the output should be structured or how long it should be
- Tone — how it should sound

You don't need to memorize this. Every prompt below already has it built in — the CRAFT breakdown is just there so you understand why it works, and can tweak it yourself later.

HOW TO USE THIS PACK

- Pick whichever prompt matches what's on your plate today — no need to go in order.
- Swap out anything in [brackets] with your real details.
- Treat the first result as a draft — one follow-up like "make it shorter" usually gets you the rest of the way.

THE 10 PROMPTS

For Teachers, Tutors & School Staff

PROMPT 1 — Planning a Single Lesson

C CONTEXT	I'm preparing a lesson for tomorrow and want a clear plan I can actually follow.
R ROLE	Act as an experienced curriculum designer.
A ACTION	Create a lesson plan outline for one class period.
F FORMAT	3 sections: objectives, activities, and assessment — no more than 200 words total.
T TONE	Clear and practical, no education jargon.

FULL PROMPT — COPY & PASTE

Act as an experienced curriculum designer and create a lesson plan outline for one class period on [topic]. Structure it into 3 sections: objectives, activities, and assessment. Keep the whole plan under 200 words and use clear, practical language — no education jargon.

PRO TIP: Swap in your actual topic and grade level in the brackets — the more specific you are, the less editing you'll need to do after.

PROMPT 2 — Emailing a Parent About a Struggling Student

C CONTEXT	A student is falling behind and I need to loop in their parent.
R ROLE	Act as a supportive, professional teacher.
A ACTION	Write an email to the parent about their child's progress.
F FORMAT	150 words, 3 short paragraphs.
T TONE	Warm but direct — not alarming, not vague.

Act as a supportive, professional teacher and write an email to a parent about their child, [student name], who is currently struggling with [specific subject or behavior]. Write it in 150 words across 3 short paragraphs: what you're noticing, why it matters, and a next step you'd like to take together. Keep the tone warm but direct.

PRO TIP: Paste in 1–2 real details about what you've observed — a generic email reads as generic to parents too.

PROMPT 3 — Writing Report Card Comments

C CONTEXT	I'm writing individual report card comments and want each one to feel personal, not copy-pasted.
R ROLE	Act as an experienced classroom teacher.
A ACTION	Write a personalized report card comment for one student.
F FORMAT	3 to 4 sentences.
T TONE	Encouraging and specific, not generic.

Act as an experienced classroom teacher and write a report card comment for a student named [name]. Their strengths are [strength], and an area to grow is [area]. Write 3 to 4 sentences that are encouraging and specific — avoid generic phrases like 'a pleasure to have in class.'
```

PRO TIP: Run this once per student and just swap the bracketed details — much faster than starting from a blank page each time.

PROMPT 4 — Creating a Quick Quiz

C CONTEXT	I want to check understanding before moving on to the next unit.
R ROLE	Act as a subject-matter expert in [subject].
A ACTION	Create quiz questions to review the unit.
F FORMAT	10 multiple-choice questions with an answer key, grade-appropriate for [grade level].
T TONE	Clear and age-appropriate — no overly complex wording.

Act as a subject-matter expert in [subject] and create 10 multiple-choice questions to review [unit or topic] for [grade level] students. Include an answer key at the end. Keep the wording clear and age-appropriate.
```

PRO TIP: Ask a follow-up like 'make question 4 harder' or 'add one short-answer question' — refining beats starting over.

PROMPT 5 — Adapting a Lesson for Mixed Abilities

C CONTEXT	I'm teaching the same lesson to a classroom with a wide range of skill levels.
R ROLE	Act as an instructional coach.
A ACTION	Suggest ways to adapt the lesson for different ability levels.
F FORMAT	A bullet list — one adaptation per ability level (below grade level, on grade level, above grade level).
T TONE	Practical, ready to use tomorrow.

Act as an instructional coach and suggest 3 ways to adapt this lesson: [paste or describe your lesson]. Give one practical adaptation each for students below grade level, on grade level, and above grade level. Format as a bullet list, and keep every suggestion something I could realistically use tomorrow.
```

PRO TIP: This works well pasted right after Prompt 1 — plan the lesson first, then adapt it in the same conversation.

PROMPT 6 — Drafting a Class Newsletter

C CONTEXT	I send families a monthly update and want it to feel warm, not like a form letter.
R ROLE	Act as a friendly class newsletter writer.
A ACTION	Draft this month's class newsletter.
F FORMAT	200 words, 3 sections: highlights, upcoming events, reminders.
T TONE	Warm and easy to skim on a phone.

Act as a friendly class newsletter writer and draft this month's newsletter for families. Include 3 sections: highlights from this month ([list 2–3 things]), upcoming events ([list dates]), and reminders ([list anything families need to know]). Keep it to 200 words, warm in tone, and easy to skim on a phone.
```

PRO TIP: Keep a running note of highlights through the month so this prompt takes 2 minutes instead of 20 when it's time to send.

PROMPT 7 — Building a Grading Rubric

C CONTEXT	I'm grading a writing assignment and want consistent, defensible criteria.
R ROLE	Act as an assessment specialist.
A ACTION	Create a grading rubric for the assignment.
F FORMAT	4 criteria, each with 4 performance levels, in a simple table.
T TONE	Objective and clear — no vague language like 'good effort.'

Act as an assessment specialist and create a grading rubric for a [type of assignment, e.g. 'persuasive essay'] assignment. Include 4 criteria relevant to this assignment, each scored across 4 performance levels, formatted as a table. Use objective, specific language — avoid vague terms like 'good effort.'
```

PRO TIP: Paste the actual assignment instructions into the prompt for a rubric that matches exactly what you asked students to do.

PROMPT 8 — Giving Feedback on a Student Draft

C CONTEXT	A student submitted a rough draft and I want to give feedback that actually helps them improve.
R ROLE	Act as a supportive writing coach.
A ACTION	Give feedback on the student's draft.
F FORMAT	3 strengths and 2 areas to improve, as short bullet points.
T TONE	Encouraging and specific, never harsh.

Act as a supportive writing coach and give feedback on this student draft: [paste draft]. Give 3 specific strengths and 2 specific areas to improve, each as a short bullet point. Keep the tone encouraging — this is feedback a student should feel motivated by, not discouraged by.
```

PRO TIP: You can hand this feedback directly to the student, or use it as your own starting point before adding a personal note.

PROMPT 9 — Preparing a Staff Meeting Agenda

C CONTEXT	I'm running a department or staff meeting and want it to stay on track.
R ROLE	Act as an organized school administrator.
A ACTION	Draft a meeting agenda.
F FORMAT	5 agenda items, each with a suggested time allocation, for a [length]-minute meeting.
T TONE	Professional and efficient.

Act as an organized school administrator and draft an agenda for a [length]-minute [staff/department] meeting. The topics to cover are: [list topics]. Structure it as 5 agenda items, each with a suggested time allocation, in professional, efficient language.

PRO TIP: List your topics in order of priority — if the meeting runs short, this prompt structure makes it obvious what to cut first.

PROMPT 10 — Writing an End-of-Term Reflection

C CONTEXT	I need to write a reflection for my professional development portfolio.
R ROLE	Act as a reflective, experienced educator.
A ACTION	Write a professional reflection on this term.
F FORMAT	300 words, 3 paragraphs: what worked, what didn't, and next steps.
T TONE	Honest and thoughtful, not performative.

Act as a reflective, experienced educator and write a 300-word professional reflection on this term. Structure it into 3 paragraphs: what worked well ([list 1–2 things]), what didn't go as planned ([list 1–2 things]), and what I'll try next term. Keep the tone honest and thoughtful, not performative.

PRO TIP: Jot down 3–4 rough notes about your term before running this — the prompt will shape them, but it can't invent your actual experience.

ONE LAST THING

These 10 Are Just the Start.

If even one of these saved you real time today, that's the whole point — small, finished things beat big, abandoned things.

The 28-Day AI Challenge is built the same way: one clear thing to do each day, twenty minutes at a time, until you've built a real, usable skill instead of another pile of open tabs.

You're not behind. You're just unstarted.
